One day I was in the UN waiting for a friend. It was a sunny day and a little windy. I looked at the 195 colorful flags of the UN member countries that were moving in the wind.

I thought what a beautiful picture it was and said to myself that these colors and their emblems must have a meaning; I could make a collage of these flags and emblems and if so, what will they look like? What will they look like if these flags and emblems are a different color but are in the same shape? Or what will they look like if they are only shown in black, white and gray?

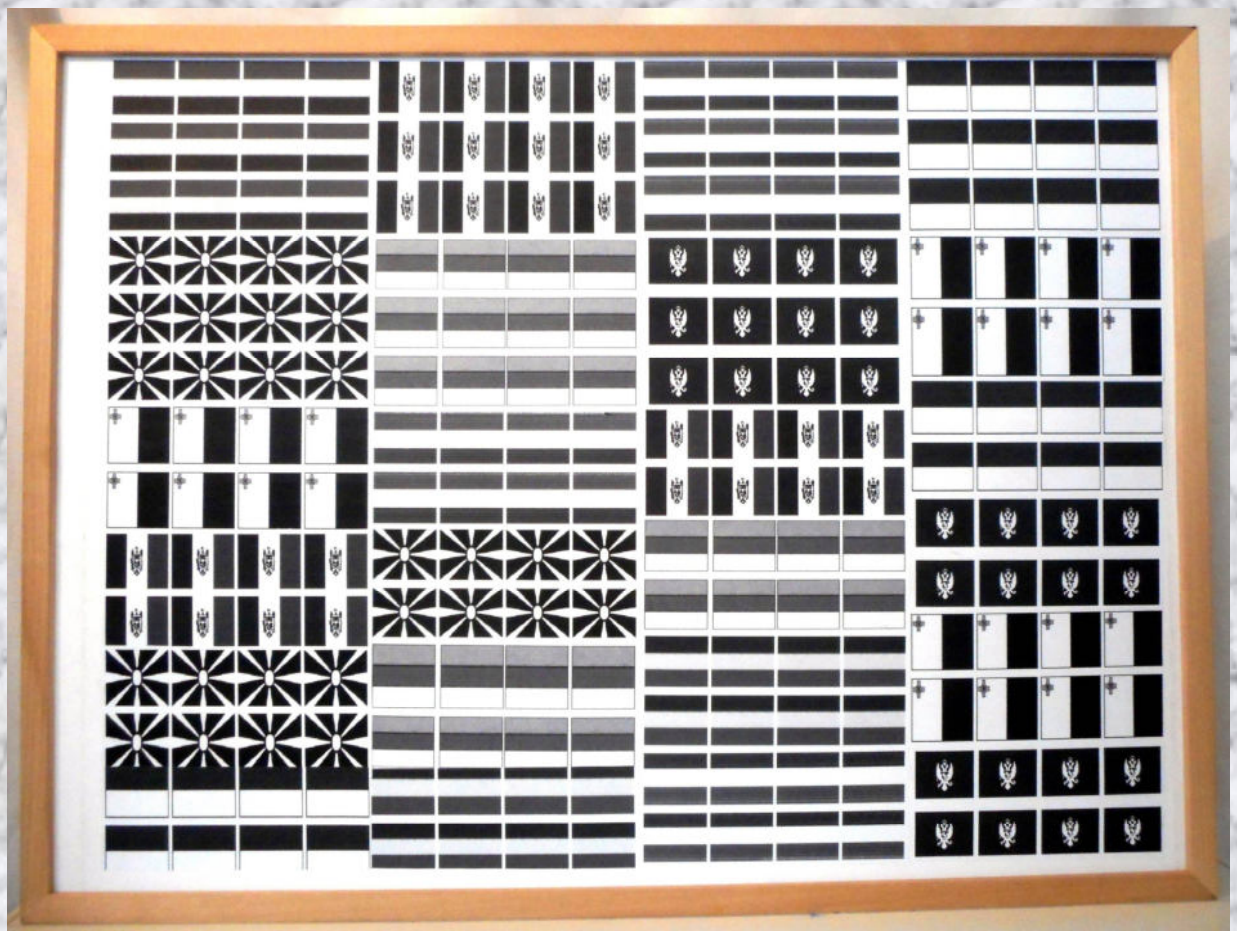

I wanted to answer that question and had to start working. I was very curious about the result myself. Now the result is here and I like it.

I hope you like it too!
