Imagine you are going on vacation to France and Slovenia and every time you cross the border everything suddenly turns colorless and you see everything in white, black and gray!

You don't believe what happened to you and they also take pictures of it to prove that what you are seeing is not true and the environment around you is colored. But the pictures are also black, gray and white !!

But the nice thing is that when you wake up to this shock, you will see everything in bright colors!

I have tried to portray this nightmare as anything but a nightmare and to prove that pictures in black, white and gray are not scary at all, they are even beautiful.

Judge for yourself!
